

HELP AMERICA COMPETE

Tell Congress to Reauthorize the U.S. Export-Import Bank

The Ex-Im Bank has long supported U.S. jobs and growth.

In Fiscal Year 2013, it:

- supported more than $37 billion U.S. exports worldwide;
- supported 205,000 American jobs; and
- approved more than 3,800 transactions, including 3,400 for small businesses

BUT, the race for exports, growth, and jobs is competitive. The U.S. ranks 8th among the world's 10 largest economies in terms of the support it provides to domestic companies as a share of GDP. Failure to reauthorize the Ex-Im Bank would make it even harder for U.S. companies of all sizes to compete against foreign companies that get support from their export-import banks.
